U. S. WON'T DEAL WITH RUSSIA UNTIL PRISONERS GO FREE

Recognition Proposals to Be Denied Unless Freedom of Americans Is Assured.

MEN AND WOMEN HELD.

Government Spokesmen Indignantly Outline Attitude Toward the Soviets.

By David Lawrence.
(Special Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(Copyright, 1921.)—The United States Government refuses to have any dealings whatsoever with the present Russian Government until all Americans now held prisoners are summarily released.

With a degree of feeling and indignation that conveyed a world of meaning to the spokesmen of the Washington Government today outlined their attitude toward Russia. No Government in Russia can come even within hailing distance of the United States Government. It was emphatically announced, until the prisoners are given their freedom. Reports to the Department of State indicate that the Americans are being badly treated. Men and women who went to Russia on business errands wholly disconnected from politics have been thrown into jail and held there practically as hostages to deal favorably with the Soviet authorities on international questions.

"But if the Moscow Government imagines that the United States will be influenced by such tactics to think well of the Soviet, no greater mistake could have been made. Our Government regards the alienate American public opinion and to postpone the hour of recognition, even though the usual conditions necessary in such a step shall have been formally satisfied.

The question is being asked "What can the United States do about it?" The idea of using physical force to maintain American rights abroad, as so often proclaimed in the halls of Congress with patriotic fervor is in this case at least impracticable, for an expedition against Russia to rescue the American prisoners is from a military standpoint colossal. The American Government has on more than one occasion discouraged a military move against Russia in company with the Allies when the situation was even more distressing than it is now.

Our officials, therefore, are com-

POLICE DOG AIDS HUNT FOR LOST BOY

Wide Search on for Archie Northrup, Who Wandered Off From Kearny, N. J., Home.

Archie B. Northrup, three and one-half years old, who wandered away from his home at No. 222 Stewart Avenue, Kearny, N. J., yesterday, had not been found this afternoon. Everybody in Kearny, Belleville and Arlington who can spare the time is out on a search for the youngster.

Reports from widely separated parts of Belleville, Arlington and Kearny would indicate that the child was wandering about, lost, as late as a week last night when a boy answering his description was seen near the Belleville Bridge over the Passaic River. Boy scouts, who have traced all reports say that Archie certainly was alive late last night and it is hoped that some citizen took him in and cared for him without saying anything to the police. Chief Holman, of the Glen Rock police force arrived in Kearny this afternoon with a police dog which is a famous trailer.

CHICAGO OFFERS RENT CONCESSIONS ON APARTMENTS

First Time in Several Years—Moderate Priced Flats, However, Still Are Scarce.

CHICAGO, May 17.—(Copyright, 1921.)—Rent concessions are an inducement to prospective tenants were offered in Chicago today for the first time in several years. A real estate firm advertised free rent until June 1 on two apartments in a choice residential section.

One was six rooms, sun parlor and bath with a rental of $29 a month, while the other was four rooms and bath for $27. Real estate agents say that the higher priced apartments were plentiful, but that there were none of the moderate priced variety for rent.

GIRL DIES OF DRUG IN APARTMENT OF ARTIST-FIANCE

Emily G. Clinton Was to Have Married in Month Man She Had Known a Week.

Engaged to be married within a month to a man she had known but a week, pretty Emily Grace Clinton, formerly of New Haven, twenty-four, and for several years an orphan, was found dying at 6 o'clock this morning in bed in her room at No. 41 West 12th Street, by Norman L. Mormand, a Greenwich Village artist she had known for a year and a half at No. 24 West 9th Street. They had been friends since Marie was seven years old. Two weeks ago, according to the rumor, and a week ago, according to the man, Mormand came into their lives.

"It was a case of love at first sight," said Marie to-day. Marie is a typical village girl, pretty, with soft skin and baby blue eyes, her blonde hair artistically bobbed and shirts reaching to the knees. "We lived together for a year and a half," she said, "and yesterday started to move over to a suite which Mr. Mormand had occupied at No. 41 West 12th Street. Emily remained there last night and I was to join her to-day. Norman moved into the back room of the suite and we were to occupy the front room where Emily slept last night. We three had dinner together last night and they went to the apartment to get it ready."

"Emily seemed in good spirits when I left her, but she had been dependent for several days. If she took narcotics I didn't know it. She had frequent headache attacks for which she took aspirin, taking fifteen grains at a dose and taking several doses in a day."

Mormand said he had remained in Miss Clinton's room until 2 o'clock this morning, helping her hang pic-

RICH SPECULATORS WERE VISITORS AT THE WARNER HOME

Two Blonde Sisters Brought Into the Mysterious Shooting of John H. Reid.

HUNTING DON COLLINS.

Leila Wiley, Screen Actress, Missing; Sought by the Police as Witness.

Letters and papers found by detectives in the home of Mrs. Hazel Davis Warner, No. 1302 University Avenue, the Bronx, where John H. Reid was mysteriously shot last Sunday morning, indicate that there are a number of prominent and wealthy citizens of New York and other places who were visitors at the University Avenue house. It is known that Mrs. Warner was in close touch with a man in Wall Street who kept track of lucky speculators.

With Reid still unconscious in Fordham Hospital and all the witnesses to the shooting except one missing, the police authorities are scouting all the over the city for information. District Attorney Glenon of the Bronx issued a number of subpoenas to-day calling upon women and men to appear before the Grand Jury.

Two who responded to subpoenas were Leila and Audrey Lawrence, sisters, blonde and very pretty, who live at No. 6 West 56th Street. Charles Leighton, of the same address, accompanied the Lawrence sisters. He was under subpoena. They were questioned about Leila Wiley, the screen actress, who fled with Mrs. Warner and Frank Boylan directly after the shooting. No trace has been found of these three or of "Don" Collins, the ex-convict, who is believed to have shot Reid.

From documents found in the Warner home detectives have obtained the names of two girls who have brought suit for damages against a New York millionaire alleging that he assaulted them at a house party. Leila Wiley was a guest on that occasion.

Inspector Coughlin and the District Attorney believe that jealousy was mixed with another motive for the shooting. They say Reid was one of many men of wealth brought to the house in the desire to get him into card games or other entertainments involving money and that Mrs. Warner became infuriated with him to the exclusion of her former favorite, Leila Wiley.

"There is a bigger case than that," said what you want—bigger, or anything. You can say jealousy is the motive. But not entirely."

Reluctant to discuss the case, Inspector Coughlin emphasized this:

"Miss Wiley comes of good family. She is not on our records. I don't know about Boylan, but I do of Collins."

Mme. Curie's Daughter, Herself an Expert, Tells Of Radium Cancer Cures

PYROMANIAC'S ACT IMPERILS 17 LIVES IN WEST HOBOKEN

Four Families Trapped, Carried Down Ladders—Sick Children Saved.

Four families, consisting of seventeen persons, were trapped early today in a fire which spread rapidly from the basement to the upper floors of the apartment house at No. 212 Bergenline Avenue, West Hoboken.

Practically all the tenants, who crowded at the windows in their night clothing, screaming for help, were carried down ladders by firemen. When the latter managed to get to the third floor they found there two sick children, who had been deserted by their panic-stricken parents. The children were carried to safety over the roof.

Chief Schler, of the Fire Department, said that he believed the fire was of incendiary origin. In support of this he said that half an hour before the blaze was discovered by Mrs. Anna Reinhardt, one of the tenants who aroused the house, an alarm in the neighborhood had been sent in. The firemen responded but, failing to find any trace of a fire, returned to their quarters. Then came the discovery of the fire and the second alarm. An investigation of the fire was begun. The damage amounted to about $5,000.

Worst Case Can Be Healed If Taken in Time, She Says in First Interview—Hopes to Make Great Discovery.

Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

"The newest development in the medical use of radium in France is the application of the emanations in many little tubes, placed directly upon the surface of the cancerous growth, instead of directing the emanations from one big tube, as was done in the earlier treatments. When the big tube was used the burn was too deep in one place, and the entire expanse of cancerous tissues was not always destroyed. Now sometimes as many as twenty small tubes are used on one cancer," Irene Curie, daughter of Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, declared to-day.

"Another helpful use of radium is in alleviating the pain and prolonging the life of the cancer patient whose treatment with the emanations has been delayed too long for a complete cure to be possible," she continued. "I do not want to say positively, but I think that, even with our present knowledge of radium, any cancer may be cured if it is provided it be applied before the case is too advanced."

"Even deep-seated cancers, to which the radium emanations can not be applied directly, have been treated by directing these emanations on the outside of the body, at the part directly above the cancer, perhaps protecting the rest of the body surface with a lead sheet. The sufferings even of incurable cancer patients can be made much less by the employment of radium emanations."

Irene Curie is Mme. Curie's twenty-three-year-old daughter, and scientific assistant, and was deputized to give the first formal "Curie

IRISH OUTBREAKS CLAIM 70 VICTIMS; PRISON ATTACKED

Woman, Refusing to Leave Her Husband's Side, Is Shot and Killed.

SICK IN HOSPITAL DIE.

Thirty-Five Deaths Reported in Last Two Days and List Is Growing Rapidly.

DUBLIN, May 17.—The number of dead in ambushes in Ireland within two days is constantly increasing as reports come in from various districts. A total of thirty-five has been thus far recorded as killed, and the wounded foot an equal number, with the belief that the latter will exceed the known dead.

A third attack was made on the male prison in Cork last night. For more than an hour rifle fire was directed from without the walls upon the building, and this was replied to by the guards with machine guns. Signals brought reinforcements from the barracks and the attackers were driven off. It is said that several patients in a hospital nearby died of excitement caused by the noise of the shots.

Attacks on the police and military occurred in several places. A constable was killed and a sergeant and another constable were wounded as they were leaving a church in Banisha, County Tipperary. The body of an unknown man was found near the Killiney golf links in Dublin County with five bullet wounds in the head.

A bomb was thrown at a military lorry in crowded Frederick Street, this city. In the shooting which followed four civilians were wounded.

Military reports say that three prisoners attempted to escape from an escort at Currantual, County Kerry, Sunday. Two of them were shot and killed and the other was wounded. The escort was fired at from a house, which they bombed. The occupants of the house, while running away, were fired at and the owner was killed.

Last evening three armed men entered a private hotel at Salt Hill, County Galway, and took on two students, who were badly beaten and then fired at. One was hit three times and is in a critical condition. Another received two bullet wounds, but these are not dangerous. It is alleged that two of the attackers were police, and two constables have been arrested.

Details are coming to hand of the killing of four persons in an automobile party of five at Gort, in County Galway. The car, which was driven by District Inspector Blake, was carrying also Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Gregory, Capt. Cornwallis and Lieut. MacCreedy. Police who went to the scene after the tragedy were fired upon and one constable wounded.

According to latest information the automobile party was returning home after a visit to Galtymore House. When they reached their destination they found the gate to the avenue leading to the house closed. When Capt. Cornwallis got out to open it he was shot dead from the surrounding shrubbery. Almost instantly the party was surrounded by disguised men who ordered the women members of the party to leave the car. Mrs. Blake flatly refused, saying that she would rather die with her husband. Mrs. Gregory left, but had gone but a short distance when she heard the sound of shots.

Later the bodies of her companions were found dead by the wayside. All had been shot.

Mrs. Gregory is a daughter-in-law of Lady Darnley.

"OPEN SHOP" ON U. S. BOATS IS DECREED BY SHIP BOARD BECAUSE OF MARINE STRIKE

Government Now Will Recognize Only Collective Bargaining—N. Y. Harbor Arbitration Board Votes Hands Off Policy in Regard to Tugboats—Lone Vessel Tied Up Here.

"The straight out and open shop system is now and hereafter the policy of the United States Shipping Board," said Capt. Irving L. Evans, National Director of the Sea Service Bureau of the Board.

"Only one vessel of the Shipping Board remains tied up in New York Harbor as the result of the strike which was inaugurated May 1, and it is a steamer of the small lake type.

"Engineers prefer the larger type for the reason that the pay is better. All other craft have sailed with full crews and the majority of the engineers were members of the union."

"We recognize the right of the men for collective bargaining, but will not again recognize the closed shop and the men know that they will be fully protected in them."

"We received a wire to-day from Cleveland saying that all the engineers on the ferries and dredges on the Great Lakes, which had been operating under the closed shop system, have accepted the 15 per cent wage reduction."

It was to prevent such event that William S. Brown, National President of the Marine Engineers, hurried last week from Washington to Detroit.

The New York Harbor Arbitration Board, which is composed of six tugboat owners and six employees, met this afternoon and adopted a resolution to keep hands off the strike. The resolution stated that:

"The agreement entered into on Dec. 31, 1920, has not been violated and has no bearing on the present controversy between the steamship owners and their employees, and that it is a matter over which the New York Harbor Board has no jurisdiction."

Two of the employees voted with the employers and one of them was William Malter, head of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Association. Joseph H. Moran, a member of the Board and former president of the New York Tugboat Exchange, was asked what would happen if the engineers refuse to abide by the decision and quit.

"We'll get others," he said. At the Shipping Board headquarters announcement was made that from all parts the story is the same regarding strike conditions—that ships are sailing with full crews. From New Orleans word came that five engineers had been secured for the Seonagard and that the Western Light sailed yesterday.

From Savannah a telegram announced that crews had been furnished for two steamers and that the Minnesota sailed yesterday. Norfolk sent news that the Western Lake and West Seavix had sailed and that crews, including engineers from the local union, had been secured for the Elton and the Evergreen City.

All these vessels, it was declared, are loaded with coal for England, notwithstanding that great stress had been laid upon the union's boast that there would be no coal sent away on account of the strike. Great dissatisfaction exists among the American members of the Engineers' Union, according to the Shipping Board's representatives at the foregoing ports, and the speedy breaking up of the strike is predicted.

From Boston the Shipping Board
